YOUNG BANCROFT PROVES CHARGE AND GETS DIVORCE

Wilmington, Del., March 29.—The superior court granted to John Bancroft, Jr., a divorce from his wife, Madeline Dupont Bancroft. Mrs. Bancroft is the daughter of Alfred I. Dupont, the powder magnate, and she filed counter suit which was not heard. The charges of infidelity made by the husband were bitterly fought.

Bancroft and Miss Dupont eloped. They went to Germany to live while Bancroft finished his education. There Max Heibler became acquainted with them, and he was named by Bancroft as co-respondent. The husband also made Mrs. Bancroft's infant son, whom he referred to as "Max Heibler," a co-respondent because he asserted in his papers that Heibler was the child's father.

Outlook Bad For Aubert

General Said to Be Surrounded by Mexican Rebels.

General Aubert is now surrounded by 200 rebels here, according to official reports from the front. The liberal says there is no chance for him, and he has been driven off the line of communication and is pressed on all sides. Aubert was overtaken on the Parana river and the rebels attacked his rear. General Salazar with 100 men flanked the right and General Fernandez with more cavalry attacked the left, leaving only a small retreat open to the federals. Aubert has thus far succeeded by a hasty retreat in keeping the body of General Orozco's army from chasing him through the west of Jimenez, while the main body of federals under General Huerta is concentrating at Torreon, attempting to make it impenetrable.

TURN OUT IN BIG STORM TO HEAR TEDDY

St. Louis Crowd Cheers When Colonel Makes Hit.

St. Louis, March 29.—In spite of a drenching rain, a crowd of 5,000 men traveled out to the First Regiment armory to hear Colonel Roosevelt's speech on the right of the people to rule. It was the most enthusiastic and responsive crowd the colonel has talked to. They yelled and whistled for him when he said: "All over this country there has been going on in primary elections an amount of obstruction of this popular will which I have not seen equalled in the 30 years I have been in politics. The American people can not submit to this." Again the audience yelled when the colonel shouted the sentences on which the report of his possible bolt had been based.

"If the people of a community are for me and the politicians record them against me, I will have a good deal to say."

"I would a great deal rather to the impulse of the people than the tricky deliberation of the bosses got a big shout."

When the colonel, who had worked up to a high pitch of excitement, declared that out of President Taft's plan of government of the people by a representative class of the people, "you get the aristocracy of naked and brutal wealth," the crowd yelled wildly.

Jury Failed To Agree

Unable to Agree and Huffman Will Be Re-Tried in April.

Columbus, O., March 29.—After 24 hours' deliberation, the jury in the bribery trial of Senator Isaac E. Huffman of Butler county reported its inability to agree and was discharged. Huffman was the fourth trial to result from last spring's graft disclosures in the legislature. There was one acquittal and two convictions. Senator Huffman's chief defense was an alibi, in which he was supported by three colleagues. He will be tried again in April. It is said on good authority that the first ballot stood 8 to 4 for conviction and that at the close it was an even break, 6 to 6.

Scenes In the Heart of the English Coal Mining Region

LEGISLATIVE action to redress the grievances of labor is nowadays more readily sought in England than in this country, so that Premier Asquith's determination to make the minimum wage bill a party measure and the threat that if mine owners resisted such a solution of the labor problem the government would nationalize the mines was productive of less outcry in England than would have followed a similar declaration in this country. The accompanying illustrations have to do with scenes in the "Black Mines." The upper of the pictures shows a woman returning from a visit to the tip, where she has collected a small supply of coal, the other the last pay day of some of the north-country miners before they went on strike.

A prominent operator said that the situation was one that evidently could not be worked out in any way except by a test of endurance.

Senate Subcommittee Finds In Favor of William Lorimer.

Washington, March 29.—The right of Senator Lorimer of Illinois to his seat in the United States senate was upheld by the special investigation committee, which decided that the senate's vote sustaining Mr. Lorimer in the last congress, on substantially the same charges, barred any further proceeding against him. The vote was five to three.

Another resolution adopted exonerated Edward Hines of Chicago, president of a large lumber company, of any wrongdoing. The committee also took action declaring that there was no conclusive evidence of a legislative "jackpot" on the resolution declaring that Lorimer had no knowledge of any corrupt dealings. Senators Kenyon and Lea, who opposed Lorimer, refrained from voting.

TROUBLE FEARED AT INQUEST

Leaders of Mob That Attacked City Hall Are Known and Will Be Forcibly Taken Before Coroner—Candidate For State's Attorney Issues Statement Blaming Millionaire Tax-Dodgers For Trouble—Its Publication In Papers Refused by Military.

Rock Island, Ill., March 29.—Rock Island must today decide whether this soldier-guarded city is to be given over to wholesale violence or whether peace will be restored. Mob leaders who led the assault upon the city hall Tuesday night have been identified and will be taken by force if necessary to the coroner's inquest. In the list of witnesses to be called are the most dangerous element in the city and those who are credited with instigating all the trouble that led to bloodshed in the streets.

It is in the outcome of today's action that the city's immediate future depends. If the men who are credited with plotting vengeance against the city administration submit peacefully to court action, it is apparent that the present trouble is over. But if the mob leaders look upon the grand jury action and compulsory summons before the coroner's inquest as a fresh offensive act on the part of the city, it is prophesied that even 12 companies of Illinois National Guard will have difficulty in suppressing them.

In the midst of the plans for prosecuting the rioters it was learned that more than 100 striking button-makers and Socialist organizers have left Muscatine and are en route for Rock Island to "see what they can do." An official of Muscatine said that the men had departed for this city for no other reason than to take a hand in what they call "fight against tyrannical city government."

Threatens Editor Looney.

An evidence of the strong probability of further violence here was found in the unqualified statement of Mayor Schriver that a repetition of John Looney's newspaper attacks upon him would result in Looney's death.

"I told Looney that if he repeated those attacks upon me I would kill him," said Schriver. "I meant it and I mean it now. I think such a move would be for the peace of this community. I am for peace. If Looney comes out of the hospital prepared to act decently, nobody will be happier than I. But if he don't, he can look for me. I mean what I said."

One phase of military activity here was the suppression of a statement given by Harry McCaskin, candidate for state's attorney, who has been charged with the responsibility of stirring the people into a state of revolt to the newspapers of Rock Island. It reads as follows:

"The whole thing is this: The big tax-dodgers are willing to have their tools do anything, even murder to defeat me, because they know I will make them pay taxes."

"No millionaires are killed and none is in jail. They are the real criminals. These millionaire tax-dodgers give money and furnished their automobiles to elect this man Schriver mayor. He has shown you that you can be murdered by an official under the protection of his own police. The newspapers here have shown you that they are the skunk-perfumed mouthpieces for millionaire tax-dodgers and that they are ready to lie about the attempted murder of John Looney as well as the killing of innocent people."

"I did not in any manner incite any rioting, and did not tell any person or persons to overpower the police. I want the people here to have the right of free speech and a free press."

Hillsville, Va., March 29.—That Captured Outlaw Is Victim of Treachery Plot on Part of Jack Allen to Save Son From Electric Chair by Tipping Off Hiding Places of Brothers and Nephews—On Trail of Others of the Clan.

Hillsville, Va., March 29.—Clarence Allen, one of the members of the gang that shot up the Carroll county courthouse, killing the judge, sheriff and prosecutor and several others, was captured by deputies working under Sheriff C. H. Haynes yesterday.

For several days those in search of the outlaws have been shadowing certain messenger who daily made trips from the valleys into the mountains and it was his movements that led Allen's hiding place in a cave thick with a mountain spur where he was well supplied with arms and ammunition. The officers, many of whom are experienced mountaineers, caught him by surprise, pounced down upon him and he was a prisoner before he could reach for his weapons.

Will Be Taken to Roanoke. Immediately after his capture the men started to Hillsville with the captive, handcuffed and guarded. A strange contrast to his departure from Hillsville after the shooting of the court officials, and he is a prisoner in Carroll county. He will be taken to Roanoke to join his father and brother in a prison cell.

The Jack Allen, in an effort to save his son from the electric chair, is giving away his brothers and nephews, as demonstrated by the capture of both Sidna Edwards and Claude Allen, for nobody believes the detectives could have located this last outlaw and captured him without bloodshed unless someone acquainted with his whereabouts had given them information leading to exact location. That the three outlaws will be caught is now a foregone conclusion, for information as to their location can be obtained from the same source, and that source is no other than Jack Allen.

Predict Third Party If Democrats Nominate Conservative.

Washington, March 29.—There is considerable talk among the so-called progressives of both parties in Washington about the possibility of a third national ticket, to be known as the "National Progressive party." This talk increases as the chances grow for the nomination of a conservative head of the Democratic ticket. It is conceded that President Taft will be the Republican nominee.

The progressives say that if both old parties nominate a conservative man, a third party will be launched that will embody the principles and spirit of the progressive movement now working in both political parties. Should the Democrats nominate Wilson, Bryan or Kern, it is not likely that the new party will be organized.

HUMANE SOCIETY HAS ITS FIRST CASE

Kentuckian Arrested for Beating His Wife and Gets Work-house Sentence, While Penniless Wife Is Sent to Her Friends.

The first case in which the recently organized Humane Society of Fayette county has taken active part was completed Friday morning when Wm. Mose Hamilton, a wife beater, was sentenced to pay a fine and to serve time in the Xenia workhouse, while the wife, whose clothes had been burned and who came to this city without a cent, was provided for and sent to the home of her uncle in Nelsonville.

The case came to the attention of members of the Humane Society Thursday, when Myrtle Hamilton, aged about 26 and wife of Wm. M. Hamilton, residing on the Talking-ton farm near Manara, came to this city and was directed to place her troubles before the society. This resulted in an affidavit being filed before Justice T. N. Craig charging assault and battery.

Mrs. Hamilton, who is in a delicate condition, said that her husband had quarreled with her and kicked her down a flight of steps, and taking her by one foot, dragged her about, ending by throwing a panful of water upon her, and mistreating her. She left him and later when she returned for her clothes, found that her husband had burned them. This was too much and she sought to have him punished.

The society, having no regular officer as yet, Constable Oatmeal and a deputy, went after Hamilton, who refused point-blank to accompany a colored constable. He is a Kentuckian and hates the sight of a colored officer. However, he was brought back by the two men, who had a most disagreeable experience when their rig broke down in a muddy field.

After spending the night in jail, Hamilton was arraigned before Justice Craig. Prosecuting Attorney Gregg representing the prosecution. After some attempt to dodge the charge, Hamilton entered a plea of guilty, saying he had burned his wife's clothes and mistreated her while in a fit of anger, whereupon he was fined $20 and the costs, and given 30 days in the workhouse, to remain until the fine and costs had been worked out, or some 80 days. Papers were immediately made out and he was escorted to the works on the afternoon train.

The man, who was about 25 years old, had little or no education, and talked in monosyllables as he stood, handcuffed, before the Court.

Mrs. Hamilton, who had been taken in charge by Humane Society members, found a place for her to stay and paid her expenses, was in an adjoining room during the hearing. She refused to see her husband, and her story was one of suffering and of hard work to support an idle, worthless husband.

Having no money and no friends nearer than Nelsonville, a ticket was purchased for her, and she left on the morning train, after sobbing out her thanks and appreciation of the kindness shown her when she was in the darkest hour of need.

Married 44 Years Wants a Divorce

Alexander Burns, an aged resident of the county, has filed suit against his wife, Mary L. Burns, asking that a decree of divorce be awarded him because his wife refuses to live with him, and has done so for the past 32 years.

This case is very unusual, owing to the length of time the pair have been married and the length of time separated.

The petition recites that they were married in Bloomington in 1868, and have no children, and that since 1880 the defendant has refused to live with him, and still refuses to do so.

Gregg & Gregg are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Medal Contest Draws Large Crowd

The W. C. T. U. silver medal contest, held Wednesday evening in Staunton M. E. church, drew an immense crowd and presented a fine program which elicited continuous applause.

Miss Lea Stewart and Mrs. Ralph Allen opened with a brilliant piano duet, and Rev. T. M. Ricketts gave the invocation.

There were six contestants, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Williams Craig, Miss Edith Moore, Miss Stella Watson, Mr. Dean Ricketts, Mr. Otis Burton.

Each contestant did splendidly, contributing greatly enjoyed and effective numbers, each of which presented a claim for the medal. It was the general opinion that few contests have been more full of interest or have had more able representatives.

The judges, Messrs. A. E. Henkle, Ray P. Zander and S. O. Wilson, awarded the medal to Mr. Ricketts, whose strong temperance reading, good voice and forceful presentation were very effective.

Mrs. Frank E. Haines made an able presentation speech, in an easy, graceful manner, emphasizing the evening's excellent work and its impetus to the temperance cause.

Miss Veronne Wilson contributed a very pretty vocal solo and a mixed quartet two pleasing numbers.

Miss Katharine Mark and Miss Alice Parrett, played beautifully, supplementing their first piano duet with a second number.

Ellis Larrimer Dead

Ellis Larrimer, son of Henry Larrimer of Bloomington, a highly respected young man who has been employed in Middletown for the past two or three years, died there Friday morning of acute Bright's disease.

His remains were shipped to Bloomington Friday and interment will be made in the Bloomington cemetery, the funeral services being held at 2:00 o'clock Saturday.

He was a member in good standing of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Bloomington, and also a member of the Uniform Rank of Bloomington lodge.

HUMANE SOCIETY HAS ITS FIRST CASE

Kentuckian Arrested for Beating His Wife and Gets Workhouse Sentence, While Penniless Wife Is Sent to Her Friends.

The first case in which the recently organized Humane Society of Fayette county has taken active part was completed Friday morning when Wm. Mose Hamilton, a wife beater, was sentenced to pay a fine and to serve time in the Xenia workhouse, while the wife, whose clothes had been burned and who came to this city without a cent, was provided for and sent to the home of her uncle in Nelsonville.

The case came to the attention of members of the Humane Society Thursday, when Myrtle Hamilton, aged about 26 and wife of Wm. M. Hamilton, residing on the Talkington farm near Manara, came to this city and was directed to place her troubles before the society. This resulted in an affidavit being filed before Justice T. N. Craig charging assault and battery.

Mrs. Hamilton, who is in a delicate condition, said that her husband had quarreled with her and kicked her down a flight of steps, and taking her by one foot, dragged her about, ending by throwing a painful of water upon her, and mistreating her. She left him and later when she returned for her clothes, found that her husband had burned them. This was too much and she sought to have him punished.

The society, having no regular officer as yet, Constable Oatmeal and a deputy, went after Hamilton, who refused point-blank to accompany a colored constable. He is a Kentuckian and hates the sight of a colored offer. However, he was brought back by the two men, who had a most disagreeable experience when their rig broke down in a muddy field.

After spending the night in jail, Hamilton was arraigned before Justice Craig. Prosecuting Attorney Gregg representing the prosecution. After some attempt to dodge the charge, Hamilton entered a plea of guilty, saying he had burned his wife's clothes and mistreated her while in a fit of anger, whereupon he was fined $20 and the costs, and given 30 days in the workhouse, to remain until the fine and costs had been worked out, or some 80 days. Papers were immediately made out and he was escorted to the works on the afternoon train.

The man, who was about 25 years old, had little or no education, and talked in monosyllables as he stood, handcuffed, before the court.

Mrs. Hamilton, who had been taken in charge by Humane Society members, found a place for her to stay and paid her expenses, was in an adjoining room during the hearing. She refused to see her husband, and her story was one of suffering and of hard work to support an idle, worthless husband.

Having no money and no friends nearer than Nelsonville, a ticket was purchased for her, and she left on the morning train, after sobbing out her thanks and appreciation of the kindness shown her when she was in the darkest hour of need.

Married 44 Years Wants a Divorce

Alexander Burns, an aged resident of the county, has filed suit against his wife, Mary L. Burns, asking that a decree of divorce be awarded him because his wife refuses to live with him, and has done so for the past 32 years.

This case is very unusual, owing to the length of time the pair have been married and the length of time separated.

The petition recites that they were married in Bloomington in 1868, and have no children, and that since 1880 the defendant has refused to live with him, and still refuses to do so.

Gregg & Gregg are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Medal Contest Draws Large Crowd

The W. C. T. U. silver medal contest, held Wednesday evening in Staunton M. E. church, drew an immense crowd and presented a fine program which elicited continuous applause.

Miss Lea Stewart and Mrs. Ralph Allen opened with a brilliant piano duet, and Rev. T. M. Ricketts gave the invocation.

There were six contestants, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Williams, Miss Edith Moore, Miss Stella Watson, Mr. Dean Ricketts, Mr. Otis Burton.

Each contestant did splendidly, contributing greatly enjoyed and effective numbers, each of which presented a claim for the medal. It was the general opinion that few contests have been more full of interest or have had more able representatives.

The judges, Messrs. A. E. Henkle, Ray F. Zander and S. O. Wilson, awarded the medal to Mr. Ricketts, whose strong temperance reading, good voice and forceful presentation were very effective.

Mrs. Frank E. Haines made an able presentation speech, in an easy, graceful manner, emphasizing the evening's excellent work and its impetus to the temperance cause.

Miss Veronne Wilson contributed a very pretty vocal solo and a mixed quartet two pleasing numbers.

Miss Katharine Mark and Miss Alice Parrett, played beautifully, supplementing their first piano duet with a second number.

Ellis Larrimer Dead

Ellis Larrimer, son of Henry Larrimer of Bloomington, a highly respected young man who has been employed in Middletown for the past two or three years, died there Friday morning of acute Bright's disease.

He was a member in good standing of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Bloomington, and also a member of the Uniform Rank of Bloomington lodge.

Henry's Business Judgment

How He Selected His Wife's Easter Hat

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

DECLARE Mrs. Granmore sighed, "I just don't know what to do about a new hat this spring."

"Of course you don't," Henry Granmore agreed with her, sourly. "Of course you don't. There never was a woman who knew what to do about a new Easter hat—except to buy one."

He chuckled at his own sarcasm, which is a way men have. Sarcasm isn't worth a cent to your genuinely sarcastic man unless he can chuckle over it and repeat it mentally to himself and roll it as a sweet morsel under his tongue. Especially is this true of sarcasm about Easter bonnets. Regarding these very necessary appendages of the attire of a woman, man follows the beaten track of all the jokesmiths since Samson, who made the first riddle, and waxes sarcastic as custom dictates.

"I don't see," Henry resumed, having sated himself with chuckles over his own sarcasm, "why in the name of time a woman thinks she has to have a new hat for Easter."

"Why every woman has one," his wife argued, meekly.

"That's the answer. Every woman gets one because she thinks every other woman will have one. And not a confounded one of the lot uses any business judgment in selecting or buying her hat. The milliners know all about women—they're women themselves. So they boost the prices up at Easter time, and laugh in their sleeves at their sisters who come trailing in and go trailing out with the contraptions the milliners are pleased to call bonnets. Bah! I'll bet no milliner will make her own hat. I'll bet she has to go to some other milliner just to have the feminine gratification of being slung. Hamph! Have you brought your hat home?"

"Why, no. I said I didn't know what to do about one."

"You might have brought one home and still have been in the dark," Henry treated himself to a few more chuckles over this sarcastic remark. The way men carry on about Easter hats, it serves them right to have to pay big prices for them. Now, if a man would just be calm and philosophical about it, and sit down and reason the matter out, ten to one his wife would either buy a cheaper hat or maybe she wouldn't buy any at all. Maybe, that is. At any rate, she would be happier with the hat when she got it.

"Well, Henry," his wife said, "I know how you always feel about my hats and what they cost, and I have decided this year to act on your advice. I want you to take an hour or so with me tomorrow and pick out a hat for me. Then you'll be sure at least to please yourself with the cost of it—and sometimes I feel that you could exercise perhaps a little more artistic taste than I can, for you are out in the world more, and you know more about what harmonizes and what suits a person, and so on."

Mrs. Granmore looked meek when she said that, but if you could have looked into her mind you would have seen the craftiest little thoughts hopping around and nudging each other in the ribs. She knew the vanity of a man. She knew that if you tell a man you rely on his judgment as to anything from setting a hen to making an airship he will modestly accept your estimate of his capacity and offer you his expert services.

"Well," Henry said, "now you're talking sense. I'll meet you at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and we'll go and get that hat. No use to put in a lot of time over it. I'll show you how to pick out a hat, have it boxed, paid for and sent home, without any wear and tear on your nervous system and without losing a lot of valuable time."

Next afternoon he met her as per agreement and together they found their way to the millinery store. It frked Mr. Granmore a bit to have to wait half an hour before they could be waited on, but he profited by the wait by inspecting a number of new pattern hats and scoffing and sniffing at them. By the time Miss Morgan was ready to wait on him he was ready with a plenty of good professional advice on bonnet making for her.

"Taking a bunch of straw and a feather and a yard of ribbon and jamming them together isn't any way to make a hat," he declared. "People ought to use a little thought, as well as materials."

"That's what I think, Mr. Granmore," Miss Morgan said. "You know the finest milliners in the world are men. They have a greater aptness at originating new designs than we women have. I wish we had a man milliner here. I do, indeed."

"Well, I don't claim to be a milliner," Henry said, "but I know what I like when I see it. Now, I've only got a few minutes to spare, and I'll just pick out a hat for my wife and let you send it home."

"Very well," Miss Morgan replied. "I wish all our customers were as good as you. They so seldom seem able to make up their minds."

"That's it," Henry asserted. "Women never know what they want. They fiddle around and can't decide. A man is used to making prompt decisions. His time means something to him; besides, he reasons things out logically."

"What had you in mind for Mrs. Granmore?"

"That little gray one over there would look good on her."

"This one?" Miss Morgan smiled, taking the hat from the case. "It would be lovely."

Henry caught sight of the price mark. It was $135. He stopped Miss Morgan with a wave of his hand.

"Put it back," he said. "Now that I see the other side of it it wouldn't suit her style of beauty at all. That blue one to the left is a better shape."

Miss Morgan put the blue one on Mrs. Granmore's head, and as she did so Henry observed the price ticket. It read $175. He was quick in his disapproval.

"It's too old for her," he stated. "I thought so when I first looked at it, and now that she has it on I see I was right. Bring out that one with the bunch of grapes on it."

To exercise his expert judgment he took this one in his hands and slyly peeped at the price mark. It read $135. He pursed his lips and shook his head sagely.

"I know without her trying this one on that it would make her look too dark," he said. "She needs a hat to bring out her natural beauty and not to hide it."

Mrs. Granmore stood by meekly, while Henry had hat after hat brought out for his inspection. One after the other he condemned. This one had too wide a brim, that one was too narrow; this one was overtrimmed, that one was too plain—but each and all of them bore price marks that gave Henry chills of the heart.

At last Miss Morgan brought a pretty bonnet to him.

"This one," she said, "may be a trifle giddy for your taste, but—"

"It's pretty jaunty," Henry agreed, taking the hat and turning it back and forth until he saw the price. $45. In the crown. "It's a bit frivolous, but hang it all! She isn't going to wear the thing as a penance. It isn't a bit too giddy for her. Mrs. Granmore has a natural dignity which overcomes any little touch of giddiness in her hats. Now there's a hat that looks like it might have been made for her. Try it on, my dear. Why, you could hunt the world over and never find a bonnet that becomes you like that. That's my choice. Have it sent home and I'll pay for it. There. I must get back to my office. Now, you see how a man does things. No worry, no argument—just finding the right thing and stopping with that. Good day."

And he was gone. Mrs. Granmore seized Miss Morgan's hand and shook it.

"That was splendid!" she exclaimed. "It was perfectly dear of you to put all those big price marks on the other hats and show them to him first, but I was horribly afraid some one else might have taken this hat since I decided on it yesterday, even though I did ask you to hold it for me."

"Oh," Miss Morgan laughed, "I wouldn't show it to anybody else. I knew Mr. Granmore would pick it out."

"I'll bet," Mr. Granmore said on Easter morning, "that you couldn't have found a hat that suited you better than this one does."

"I'm sure I couldn't, dear," Mrs. Granmore answered, gratefully.

Which remark filled Henry with a perfectly justifiable pride.

"You might have brought one home and still have been in the dark."

Henry treated himself to a few more chuckles over this sarcastic remark. The way men carry on about Easter hats, it serves them right to have to pay big prices for them. Now, if a man would just be calm and philosophical about it, and sit down and reason the matter out, ten to one his wife would either buy a cheaper hat or maybe she wouldn't buy any at all. Maybe, that is. At any rate, she would be happier with the hat when she got it.

"Well, Henry," his wife said, "I know how you always feel about my hats and what they cost, and I have decided this year to act on your advice. I want you to take an hour or so with me tomorrow and pick out a hat for me. Then you'll be sure at least to please yourself with the cost of it—and sometimes I feel that you could exercise perhaps a little more artistic taste than I can for you are out in the world more, and you know more about what harmonizes and what suits a person, and so on."

Mrs. Granmore looked meek when she said that, but if you could have looked into her mind you would have seen the craftiest little thoughts hopping around and nudging each other in the ribs. She knew the vanity of a man you rely on his judgment as to anything from setting a hen to making an atrship he will modestly accept your estimate of his capacity and offer you his expert services.

"Well," Henry said, "now you're talking sense. I'll meet you at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and we'll go and get that hat. No use to put in a lot of time over it. I'll show you how to pick out a hat, have it boxed, paid for and sent home, without any wear and tear on your nervous system and without losing a lot of valuable time."

Next afternoon he met her as per agreement and together they found their way to the millinery store. It frked Mr. Granmore a bit to have to wait half an hour before they could be waited on, but he profited by the wait by inspecting a number of new pattern hats and scoffing and sniffing at them. By the time Miss Morgan was ready to wait on him, he was ready with a plenty of good professional advice on bonnet making for her.

"Taking a bunch of straw and a feather and a yard of ribbon and jamming them together isn't any way to make a hat," he declared. "People ought to use a little thought, as well as materials."

"That's what I think, Mr. Granmore," Miss Morgan said. "You know the finest milliners in the world are men. They have a greater aptness at originating new designs than we women have. I wish we had a man milliner here. I do, indeed."

"Well, I don't claim to be a milliner," Henry said, "but I know what I like when I see it. Now, I've only got a few minutes to spare, and I'll just pick out a hat for my wife and let you send it home."

"Very well," Miss Morgan replied. "I wish all our customers were as good as you. They so seldom seem able to make up their minds."

"That's it," Henry asserted. "Wa-

men never know what they want. They fiddle around and can't decide. A man is used to making prompt decisions. His time means something to him; besides, he reasons things out logically."

"What hat had you in mind for Mrs. Granmore?"

"That little gray one over there would look good on her."

"This one," Miss Morgan smiled, taking the hat from the case. "It would be lovely."

Henry caught sight of the price mark. It was $150. He stopped Miss Morgan with a wave of his hand.

"But it's back," he said. "Now that I see the other side of it it wouldn't suit her style of beauty at all. That blue one to the left is a better shape."

Miss Morgan put the blue one on Mrs. Granmore's head, and as she did so Henry observed the price ticket. It read $175. He was quick in his disapproval.

"It's too old for her," he stated. "I thought so when I first looked at it, and now that she has it on I see I was right. Bring out that one with the bunch of grapes on it."

To exercise his expert judgment he took this one in his hands and slyly peeped at the price mark. It read $135. He pursed his lips and shook his head sagely.

"I know without her trying this one on that it would make her look too dark," he said. "She needs a hat to bring out her natural beauty and not to hide it."

Mrs. Granmore stood by meekly, while Henry had hat after hat brought out for his inspection. One after the other he condemned. This one had too wide a brim, that one was too narrow; this one was overtrimmed, that one was too plain—but each and all of them bore price marks that gave Henry chills of the heart.

At last Miss Morgan brought a pretty bonnet to him.

"This one," she said, "may be a trifle giddy for your taste, but—"

"It's pretty jaunty," Henry agreed, taking the hat and turning it back and forth until he saw the price, $45, in the crown. "It's a bit frivolous, but hang it all! She isn't going to wear the thing as a penance. It isn't a bit too giddy for her. Mrs. Granmore has a natural dignity which overcomes any little touch of giddiness in her hats. Now there's a hat that looks like it might have been made for her. Try it on, my dear. Why, you could hunt the world over and never find a bonnet that becomes you like that. That's my choice. Have it sent home and I'll pay for it. There, I must get back to my office. Now, you see how a man does things. No worry, no argument—just finding the right thing and stopping with that. Good day."

And he was gone. Mrs. Granmore seized Miss Morgan's hand and shook it.

"That was splendid!" she exclaimed. "It was perfectly dear of you to put all those big price marks on the other hats and show them to him first, but I was horribly afraid some one else might have taken this hat since I decided on it yesterday, even though I did ask you to hold it for me."

"Oh," Miss Morgan laughed, "I wouldn't show it to anybody else. I knew Mr. Granmore would pick it out."

"I'll bet," Mr. Granmore said on Easter morning, "that you couldn't have found a hat that suited you better than this one does."

"I'm sure I couldn't, dear," Mrs. Granmore answered, gratefully.

Which remark filled Henry with a perfectly justifiable pride.

THERE IS A LIMIT.

When the affable, smooth and "all right" agent of a public service corporation answers a just complaint by a member of the public, with the old phrase, "Well what are you going to do about it," he shows himself to be sadly out of date.

There was a time when public service corporations felt secure in the possession of franchise grants for a long term of years and duly executed contracts with the public they were designed to serve and not rob.

Conditions have changed.

With an overwhelming majority of the people in every section of the nation now refusing to stand still uncomplainingly, while their pockets are rifled by public service corporations, the officers and servants of those corporations are not as impudent in their plundering as they once were. In up to date corporations of that sort, they are more cautious. The rough work has been cut out and the polished individual with the plausible reason is put forward to smooth the way.

People have finally wakened up to the fact that there is a remedy for all wrongs and that even a public service corporation, armed with two or three franchises, cannot longer brazenly plunder the people and meet complaint with a "What are you going to do about it" argument.

There are a vast number of remedies which the people can invoke nowadays to obtain relief from ills that become unendurable and the public service corporations—most of them—have knowledge of that fact.

There almost invariably comes a time in the history of every community when the cupidity of the individuals in control of public service corporations, reaches the limit of the people's patience, and the people rise en masse and demand relief from oppression.

When that time comes the officers and servants of a company holding franchises and contracts and who by virtue of such holdings, imagine themselves secure from the righteous wrath of an outraged community and believe that the people of the community are impotent to obtain justice at their hands, may be written down as fools as well as knaves.

The officers of some public service corporations enjoying a long run of success, blessed in the fact that their company was fortunate enough to cast its lines in a community, the people of which were endowed with an unusual amount of patience, forget that there is a limit to even the patience of that people and go on inch by inch encroaching each day further over the line of honesty and fair dealing, responding to the mutterings of discontent with "What can you do about it" until the blow off comes.

When the people assert themselves and do something about it the officers of the corporations are frequently like the boy who looked into the shot gun to see if it was loaded—they never find out.

Labor's Victory

Secure Work
Day of but Eight Hours

By P. J. FLANNERY

ONE thing at a time. When the eight-hour workday has been extended more generally to those industries throughout the country which have succeeded thus far in obtaining only the nine-hour day, and on the whole, have reason to congratulate themselves upon this measure of success, it may be reasonable to consider whether the eight-hour day marks the limit to labor's aspiration in this direction.

In the industry represented by the international union of interior freight handlers and railway clerks the nine-hour day has been quite generally established. It is felt that this marks a distinct triumph of organized effort, and while of course it is recognized that the eight-hour day in this, as in every other industry, is the ideal toward which organization must constantly strive, those of us who have just entered into the enjoyment of a nine-hour day have hardly begun to agitate for less than eight hours.

The irresistible tendency in every industry like our own is toward the acquiescence by the employer in the eight-hour plan. Under a system of ten-hour shifts or of nine-hour shifts there is left out of the twenty-four hours a period of four or six hours for which there is some delinquency in providing. With the twenty-four-hour day divided into eight-hour shifts there is an equal division into three parts, which is found most convenient to regulate and maintain.

The employer has found also that he can get at least as much and as good work out of the eight-hour man under ordinary conditions, as under the old system he could get out of the ten-hour man.

The agitation for a reasonably shorter work day, it may fairly be said, has been conducted by organized labor with prudence as well as zeal. Certain industries have been fortunate enough to secure shorter work days sooner than others, and those in which the eight-hour day has been established permanently may be expected to devote more of their energy to assisting the nine-hour industries in the effort to obtain the eight-hour day before concentrating all their efforts on a still shorter work day for themselves.

I believe that it will be some time before there will be anything like a general demand for a work day of less than eight hours, although labor will strive to obtain the Saturday half-holiday, which, in practice, will amount to a substantial reduction of the week's schedule.

Poetry—Today

THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

I met an old man bent and gray,
His teeth were gone, his eyes were dim;
I thought it only right to say
A kindly word or two to him.
"Good sir," quoth I, "the day is fair,
The breeze is mild, the sky is blue,
Though sorrow still is here and there,
I hope that all is well with you."

He paused and turned and looked at me
And leaned upon his staff and said
In tones of deep anxiety,
"Which do you favor, Taft or Ted?"

I met a man who seemed in haste.
His brow was high, his look was proud,
I saw he had no time to waste.
But, having stopped him in the crowd,
I asked, "Good sir, do you believe
That since the poles have both been found
The poor will have less cause to grieve
And fewer hardships will abound?"

He paused a moment then and there
And, chewing at a black cigar,
He answered with an anxious air,
"Are you for Taft or for T. R.?"

I met a lady suffragette—
There are such suffragettes, indeed—
Her smile I shall not soon forget.
Ah, she, I trow, was born to lead.
"Fair lady," I remarked when she Had paused to hear, her cheeks
aglow,
"Your righteous cause appeals to me;
How does the window-smashing go?"

She seemed to have a solemn thought
Then with a sweet, appealing
glance,
She answered, "Do you think we ought
To give T. R. another chance?"

High Praise By Inspecting Officer

Once again Royal Chapter No. 29, O. E. S., has passed through its annual inspection with eulogiums and highest words of praise.

The inspection was made in the Masons' temporary quarters, 1 O. O. F. temple, by Grand Patron of the State J. B. McGaughey, of Columbus, who expressed his astonishment that the order could come through its great trouble of the winter and despite all handicap do such excellent work.

Under the direction of Worthy Matron Vera Veal and Worthy Patron Scott Hopkins, the officers did their work beautifully, and throughout the entire inspection there was no feature but called forth complimentary words.

Four candidates, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Will Klever, were initiated.

The inspection followed an elaborate course dinner, splendidly served by Smith Brothers at six o'clock. Over a hundred were seated and the dinner hour was one of fraternal pleasure and interest.

There were visitors from the Jefferson chapter, of Jeffersonville, Purity chapter, New Holland, Elber chapter, Williamsport, and Grand Patron, J. B. McGaughey and wife, of Columbus.

Mrs. Eva Penn, assistant Grand Matron, was prevented by illness from attending. Mrs. Virginia Willis, Deputy Grand Matron of this district, was present.

Reed Shoe Store Open This Week

The Bowling Green Press makes the following mention of the opening of a shoe store in that place by Mr. Cliff Reed, who left this city recently to conduct the store in Bowling Green.

During the first week in April there will be thrown open to the residents of this city and county an exclusive shoe store which has already attracted considerable attention partly because of the fact that the proprietor is Mr. Cliff Reed of Washington C. H., who came to Bowling Green a number of years ago and took a bride in the person of Miss Ada Ross, but also because he is a man of wide experience in the business in which he engages. He proposes to cater to the wants of the public in general, guaranteeing a perfect fit in every shoe he sells.

For the past 14 years Mr. Reed has had charge of the Shoe Dept. of the Craig Bros. store at Washington C. H., and built up such a trade that his departure from the city is felt as a decided loss not only by the firm, but also by his following.

The Kabig building has been in the hands of the carpenters, painters and decorators for several weeks past, and when the opening day arrives we doubt if anyone can pass the store without at least an inclination to have a fit in this attractive place all done in the mission finish.

There is He Risen?

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

"And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead."—Matthew xxviii, 7.

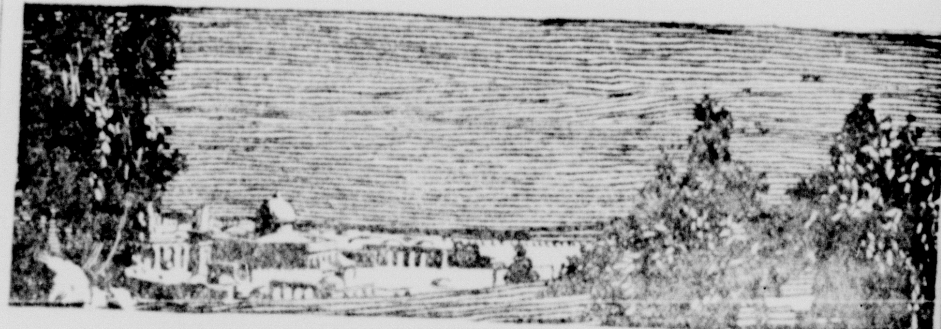

I like to think that bud and bloom
And grass and leaf
Are symbols of the empty tomb,
Of ended grief.
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see,
Each waking year.

For Heaven is so very far,
We cannot reach
The nearest little guarding star
By sight or speech—
But when the day is gladdened by
This clearer blue,
Then Heaven is not far and high
From me and you.

I fain would think He breathes above
The grass and trees,
His heart that throbs with human love
Awakens these,
And lies pure as acolytes
Their censers swing,
While all the meadowlands and heights
Are worshipping.

So in this thought of mine I find
In stone and clod
And hedge and lattice blossom-twined,
The breath of God.
And yonder in the growing wheat
And fallow lands
I see the path that knew His feet—
Work of His hands.

And so from every bird that sings
I hear the voice
That one supernal message brings,
"Arise! Rejoice!"
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see
Each waking year.

Bond Issue Legal

Judge Kyle, of the Common Pleas court of Green county, has held that a bond issue for $7,000, authorized by a rural board of education, is legal. An injunction suit had been brought against the bond issue, but this was dissolved.

The suit was similar in many respects to the Wayne township case in this county. However, it was charged that Green county board had not acted in good faith because final action in ordering the bond issue was taken a few hours before the personnel of the board was changed by incoming members.

For the past 14 years Mr. Reed has had charge of the Shoe Dept. of the Craig Bros. store at Washington C. H., and built up such a trade that his departure from the city is felt as a decided loss not only by the firm, but also by his following.

The Kabig building has been in the hands of the carpenters, painters and decorators for several weeks past, and when the opening day arrives we doubt if anyone can pass the store without at least an inclination to have a fit in this attractive place all done in the mission finish.

There is He Risen?

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

"And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead."—Matthew xxviii, 7.

I like to think that bud and bloom
And grass and leaf
Are symbols of the empty tomb,
Of ended grief.
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see,
Each waking year.

For Heaven is so very far,
We cannot reach
The nearest little guarding star
By sight or speech—
But when the day is gladdened by
This clearer blue,
Then Heaven is not far and high
From me and you.

I fain would think He breathes above
The grass and trees;
His heart that throbs with human love
Awakens these,
And lilts pure as acolytes
Their censers swing,
While all the meadowlands and heights
Are worshipping.

So in this thought of mine I find
In stone and clod
And hedge and lattice blossom-twined
The breath of God.
And yonder in the growing wheat
And fallow lands
I see the path that knew His feet—
Work of His hands.

And so from every bird that sings
I hear the voice
That one supreme message brings.
"Arise! Rejoice!"
I like to think of Him that He
Is risen here,
And that His presence we may see
Each waking year.

Bond Issue Legal

Judge Kyle, of the Common Pleas court of Green county, has held that a bond issue for $7,000, authorized by a rural board of education, is legal. An injunction suit had been brought against the bond issue, but this was dissolved.

The suit was similar in many respects to the Wayne township case in this county. However, it was charged that Green county board had not acted in good faith because final action in ordering the bond issue was taken a few hours before the personnel of the board was changed by incoming members.

Preparing the Eggs for Easter

HOME-MADE Easter eggs frequently fail in effect because they are not properly prepared.

Look over each egg carefully to see that it is not cracked or all work is wasted, then wash off with warm water to remove soil. Put aside such eggs as are to be boiled hard and colored and in a separate mound put those with most perfect surface for painting or other decorations. Make very sure there is no mixing, as a broken raw egg is not pleasing.

Colored eggs can be made any tint with special dyes, or if these are unobtainable cheap ribbon can be boiled in a little water and the boiled egg submerged in it until the right tone is acquired.

The old-fashioned calico egg will be pleasing to this generation of youngsters. The each egg in a piece of cheap figured chintz of high color and it will leave its design on the egg when put in boiling water.

If you have nothing else for color, boil the egg after tying up in the red skins of onions.

Quaint designs can be boiled into the egg by tracing figures on the shell of the raw egg with a hard tallow candle to make a white surface, then color the rest of the egg in dyed water.

When eggs are to be painted for place cards or caricatures, they need more careful treatment. Wipe the washed egg in powdered pumice to remove gloss of shell and make painting take better.

The blowing must be carefully done or the shell will crack. Prick both ends with a coarse needle. The hole should be just large enough to permit the contents being expelled. Too large an opening is disfiguring, besides making a crack more probable.

Put the egg to the mouth and blow gently at first, then hard and steadily until nothing more comes. Rinse with warm water and blow out several times again. Dry carefully so all water will run out.

To paint the egg trace the outlines with a hard pencil, then color with good water colors, as they dry most quickly. If the egg is to be filled with candy one hole may be made big enough to hold tiny candied drops. When the shell is filled paste the hole with thin paper.

Any one can paint some sort of face on an egg shell, and if further decorations in the way of hat, hair, or stock are added great delight will be given.

A girl with artistic ability can make fascinating place cards from egg shells in the forms of rabbits, owls, pigs, cupid heads, old ladies, or gay belles. These are pasted to flat cards on which a name or Easter greeting is written in gilt letters.

When the egg represents an entire figure the feet are painted on the card; when only the head, it can be set on a short tube to represent a neck, and this can be draped with stock or collar.

Use a good glue in pasting the eggs to the card, as paste or mucilage will not hold well.

Great fun for an Easter party is to supply the blank cards, blown egg shells, scissors, paints, and colored papers and set the guests to evolving their own egg ornaments. Prizes can be offered for the most successful.

Application Made For New Contract

The London Water Company has made application to the London council for a renewal of the contract to furnish water for that town. This contract expired some eighteen months ago and a movement was made by the city to have the plant appraised so that it might be purchased by the municipality.

Mentioning the application for new contract, the London Democrat says:

"The London Water Works Company presented a tentative proposition for a ten years' contract, or lease with the city. They agree to furnish water for one hundred fire plugs at $10 each, and at $35 for the remaining 22 plugs, and for any additional ones that may be put in. The contract, as presented, provides a scale of prices for private consumers; grants the city the same opportunity to purchase the plant at the expiration of the ten years' lease, that is contained in the old contract; and in case the village fails to avail itself of the opportunity a perpetual franchise is provided for."

If the Water Company provides any sort of surty for the performance of the provisions of the contract on its part, relating to the opportunity to the city to purchase at the end of the ten years, it does not yet appear. The matter was laid over."

PEOPLE NOTICED IT

Last spring many of the people who know Gerald Rodgers of New York, were talking about how pale and delicate he was. No one had to tell him for he realized his bad condition.

It was spring—just the time to do something for his blood—and he decided to do it. His recent letter tells the whole story. "I was very weak, delicate and pale all spring owing to run-down health and poor blood. But since taking Vinol my health has been built up splendidly and I have recovered my former strength. My blood is now rich and healthy and my appetite is good."

The very best spring medicine you can possibly get is Vinol, our delicate food liver and iron preparation without oil, because it not only purifies the blood but builds up flesh and strength and makes quantities of rich new blood.

Make up your mind right now that you will try Vinol for our guarantee that it must please you or you feel better than you have felt for years. Blackmer & Tangue, Druggists, Washington, D. C.

NUMBER OF DEATHS AND BIRTHS IN COUNTY

Total Number of Deaths Reached 329, and Births Reach 43 More---County Death Rate Is 15.163 Per 1000.

The State Registrar's certificate of the births and deaths in Fayette county from January 1, 1911 to January 1, 1912, according to reports filed with him from the various local registrars, has been forwarded to the County Auditor and a copy to the treasurer that the local registrars, whose duty it is to carefully record all deaths and births, may be paid for their services.

It cost Washington and Fayette county $182.25 to gather the information, and a study of the birth and death rate throughout the county is an interesting one.

If the statistics are correct, Fayette county has had 43 more births than deaths, the total deaths being given as 329 and the total births at 372. In Washington and Union townships two more deaths are reported than births, or 169 deaths and 167 births. The death rate per thousand in Washington cannot be ascertained because Union township is included in the report, but it will probably be 14 or 15 for each 1,000 inhabitants.

In Fayette county the death rate is 15.163 per 1,000 population. This is regarded as a comparatively low death rate, as some of the larger cities run many above this.

Jeffersonville and Jefferson township show 29 deaths and 32 births, while Bloomingburg and Paint township report 37 deaths and 66 births. This record of births shows Bloomingburg and Paint township the greatest exponents of anti-race suicide, while Wayne township is a close second, or probably almost equal, with 12 deaths and 34 births.

In Milledgeville and Jasper township, according to the registrar's reports, 19 births and 14 deaths.

Octa village experienced 12 deaths and 12 births, the rate being equal. Other townships and their vital statistics are: Perry, 16 deaths and 30 births; Marion, 15 deaths and 17 births; Greene, 10 deaths and 17 births; Concord, 15 deaths and 21 births.

The various registrars in the county are: Washington and Union township, C. H. Murray; Wayne, S. A. Solars; Octa, T. M. Sharp; Perry, W. E. Knedler; Marion, Gay Brown; Milledgeville and Jasper township, A. B. Gidding; Bloomingburg, Madison and Paint townships, F. M. McCoy; Jeffersonville and Jefferson township, Ray V. Glaze; Milledgeville and Jasper township, Howard Smith; Green, J. W. Jones; Concord, J. B. Mark.

Nervous, Debilitated and Run-Down

EITHER THE REST CURE OR TONA VITA WILL BUILD YOU UP AGAIN

If you are nervous, debilitated, and run-down in health, there are two things you can do to bring back your strength and vitality. You can go to a sanitarium and take the rest cure or you can secure the great modern tonic "Tona Vita" and let it build you up and furnish new nourishment for your shattered nerves.

If you knew what wonderful results have been accomplished by "Tona Vita" since physicians first introduced it in this country, you would much rather take this tonic than to go to any sanitarium on earth. Here is a statement from Mr. J. H. House, of 381 Twentieth Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., who has tried "Tona Vita." "I was all run down, intensely nervous and suffered with the most violent headaches. I felt tired and dull all day, my body seemed benumbed at times, and I did not sleep well. My digestion was imperfect and I was continually constipated. As soon as I ate anything my stomach filled with gas and I was distressed for a half hour or more. My mind was dull and my memory very poor. I contracted a cold easily and suffered with severe coughs. Sometime ago I talked with a physician who advised me to take "Tona Vita." I did it and am glad I did for the medicine was wonderful in my case. I feel as though I had a new lease on life. My ambition has returned as well as my strength and energy.

"I now sleep well and get up in the morning feeling cheerful and ready for work."

My wife was also run down and nervous. She started taking the medicine when it began to help me. Her improvement has been fine and she is now in good health."

If you are run down and haven't enough strength it is your own fault if you feel miserable a day longer, when you can get such a preparation as "Tona Vita."

Brown's Drug Store, Court and Fayette streets is agent for Tona Vita in Washington, C. H., and will refund the purchase price if it is not entirely satisfactory. The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

Planning a Factory For Jeffersonville

Dr. H. L. Little, the young veterinarian of Jeffersonville whose services are very much in demand throughout the Jeffersonville neighborhood, is thinking seriously of erecting a small factory in that town for the manufacture of a preparation with which he has been experimenting for a long time, and which is proving a great seller among horsemen.

The result of Dr. Little's experimenting is a powder, which he has named "Dr. Little's Horse Conditioner," and which has been tested the past six months and pronounced by many prominent horsemen to be a decided success. Dr. Little has been manufacturing the powder at his barn, but the demand has grown so great that he has found his plant entirely too small to meet it, and is planning to enter into the manufacture on a much larger scale.

He now has five salesmen on the road, and will add a number of others when the capacity of his plant is increased. Dr. Little is a son of Mr. J. W. Little, north of Bloomingburg, and a graduate of the O. S. U. He has met with pronounced success in his chosen vocation, and his friends see an independent fortune in the horse conditioner.

Insurance Money Motive

State Urges It as Motive For Hall Poisoning.

Lancaster, O., March 29.—In the trial of Mrs. Nancy Hall, charged with poisoning her daughter Ruth, the state showed that the entire family carried life insurance on the dead girl's life, there being two policies, one for $120 issued May 10, 1902 and one for $120 issued Nov. 12, 1906. These policies were paid to the accused mother by a check, and the prosecution claims that here was the motive for the crime, business at the fruit store being poor and the condition of the family growing worse.

Bertha Hall, 18, who prepared the breakfast at the Hall home on the day of the fatal poisoning of her sister Ruth, said that she removed the pancake flour from the basket in which George Hall, accompanied by his mother, had carried it from the store. She placed it on a kitchen table and she was the last to go to bed that night and arose with her mother at 5:30 next morning.

"Did you put poison in that flour?" demanded Assistant Prosecutor Daugherty.

"I did not," was the answer. "Did you see anybody place poison in it?"

"I did not." Bertha said she cooked first a breakfast for her mother, George and two girl boarders. It consisted of eggs, toast and coffee. These four left the house and she then opened the sack of pancake flour and made pancakes for her father, Ruth, Mary and herself.

Bertha also described the sickness of the family, her mother's return from the store to care for them, etc. She denied that her mother seemed indifferent.

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

NUMBER OF DEATHS AND BIRTHS IN COUNTY

Total Number of Deaths Reached 329, and Births Reach 43 More---County Death Rate Is 15.163 Per 1000.

The State Registrar's certificate of the births and deaths in Fayette county from January 1, 1911 to January 1, 1912, according to reports filed with him from the various local registrars, has been forwarded to the County Auditor and a copy to the treasurer that the local registrars, whose duty it is to carefully record all deaths and births, may be paid for their services.

It cost Washington and Fayette county $182.25 to gather the information, and a study of the birth and death rate throughout the county is an interesting one.

If the statistics are correct, Fayette county has had 43 more births than deaths, the total deaths being given as 329 and the total births at 372. In Washington and Union townships two more deaths are reported than births, or 169 deaths and 167 births. The death rate per thousand in Washington cannot be ascertained because Union township is included in the report, but it will probably be 14 or 15 for each 1,000 inhabitants.

In Fayette county the death rate is 15.163 per 1,000 population. This is regarded as a comparatively low death rate, as some of the larger cities run many above this.

Jeffersonville and Jefferson township show 29 deaths and 32 births, while Bloomingburg and Paint township report 37 deaths and 56 births. This record of births shows Bloomingburg and Paint township the greatest exponents of anti-race suicide, while Wayne township is a close second, or probably almost equal with 12 deaths and 34 births.

In Milledgeville and Jasper township, according to the registrar's reports, 19 births and 14 deaths. Octa village experienced 12 deaths and 12 births, the rate being equal. Other townships and their vital statistics are: Perry, 16 deaths and 50 births; Marion, 15 deaths and 17 births; Greene, 10 deaths and 17 births; Concord, 15 deaths and 21 births.

The various registrars in the county are: Washington and Union township, C. H. Murray; Wayne, S. A. Solars; Octa, T. M. Sharp; Perry, W. E. Knedler; Marion, Guy Brown; Milledgeville and Jasper township, A. B. Gidding; Bloomingburg, Madison and Paint townships, F. M. McCoy; Jeffersonville and Jefferson township, Ray V. Glaze; Milledgeville and Jasper township, Howard Smith; Green, J. W. Jones; Concord, J. B. Mark.

Nervous, Debilitated and Run-Down

EITHER THE REST CURE OR TONA VITA WILL BUILD YOU UP AGAIN

If you are nervous, debilitated, and run-down in health, there are two things you can do to bring back your strength and vitality. You can go to a sanitarium and take the rest cure or you can secure the great modern tonic "Tona Vita" and let it build you up and furnish new nourishment for your shattered nerves.

If you knew what wonderful results have been accomplished by "Tona Vita" since physicians first introduced it in this country you would much rather take this tonic than to go to any sanitarium on earth. Here is a statement from Mr. J. B. House, of 381 Twentieth Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., who has tried "Tona Vita." "I was all run down intensely nervous and suffered with the most violent headaches. I felt tired and dull all day, my body seemed benumbed at times, and I did not sleep well. My digestion was imperfect and I was continually constipated. As soon as I ate anything

my stomach filled with gas and I was distressed for a half hour or more. My mind was dull and my memory very poor. I contracted a cold easily and suffered with severe coughs. Sometime ago I talked with a physician who advised me to take "Tona Vita." I did it and am glad I did for the medicine was wonderful in my case. I feel as though I had a new lease on life. My ambition has returned as well as my strength and energy.

"I now sleep well and get up in the morning feeling cheerful and ready for work."

"My wife was also run down and nervous. She started taking the medicine when it began to help me. Her improvement has been fine and she is now in good health."

If you are run down and haven't enough strength it is your own fault if you feel miserable a day longer, when you can get such a preparation as "Tona Vita."

Brown's Drug Store, Court and Fayette streets is agent for Tona Vita in Washington C. H. and will refund the purchase price if it is not entirely satisfactory. The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

Planning a Factory For Jeffersonville

Dr. H. L. Little, the young veterinarian of Jeffersonville whose services are very much in demand throughout the Jeffersonville neighborhood, is thinking seriously of erecting a small factory in that town for the manufacture of a preparation with which he has been experimenting for a long time, and which is proving a great seller among horsemen.

The result of Dr. Little's experimenting is a powder, which he has named "Dr. Little's Horse Conditioner" and which has been tested the past six months and pronounced by many prominent horsemen to be a decided success.

Dr. Little has been manufacturing the powder at his barn, but the demand has grown so great that he has found his plant entirely too small to meet it, and is planning to enter into the manufacture on a much larger scale. He now has five salesmen on the road, and will add a number of others when the capacity of his plant is increased. Dr. Little is a son of Mr. J. W. Little, north of Bloomingburg, and a graduate of the O. S. U. He has met with pronounced success in his chosen vocation, and his friends see an independent fortune in the horse conditioner.

REPELS ATTACK OF DEATH

"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Insurance Money Motive

State Urges It as Motive For Hall Poisoning.

Lancaster, O., March 29.—In the trial of Mrs. Nancy Hall, charged with poisoning her daughter Ruth, the state showed that the entire family carried life insurance on the dead girl's life, there being two policies, one for $129 issued May 10, 1902, and one for $120 issued Nov. 12, 1906. These policies were paid to the accused mother by a check, and the prosecution claims that here was the motive for the crime, business at the fruit store being poor and the condition of the family growing worse.

Bertha Hall, 18, who prepared the breakfast at the Hall home on the day of the fatal poisoning of her sister Ruth, said that she removed the pancake flour from the basket in which George Hall, accompanied by his mother, had carried it from the store. She placed it on a kitchen table and she was the last to go to bed that night and arose with her mother at 5:30 next morning.

"Did you put poison in that flour?" demanded Assistant Prosecutor Daugherty.

"I did not," was the answer. "Did you see anybody place poison in it?"

"I did not," Bertha said she cooked first a breakfast for her mother, George and two girl boarders. It consisted of eggs, toast and coffee. These four left the house and she then opened the sack of pancake flour and made pancakes for her father, Ruth, Mary and herself.

Bertha also described the sickness of the family, her mother's return from the store to care for them, etc. She denied that her mother seemed indifferent.

Both Making Preparations

failed to do, by collecting the union dues at the mines. Under the circumstances, what are we to do except close down the mines and practically go out of business for the time being?"

READY FOR STRUGGLE

Union Miners Hard at Work Recruiting Their Ranks.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 29.—The Miners of the anthracite fields are putting forth their most strenuous efforts to line up a solid organization to present against the operators when the suspension order goes into effect Saturday night. Organizers are scattered throughout the field for this purpose, and every union man constitutes himself a committee of one to enlist recruits and make the organization numerically stronger than it was in 1902.

The success of this plan is already showing excellent results. Where it is not possible to bring men into the union by argument and persuasive force, some threats are made. These are not threats of violence, but the sort of threats the men of the Panther Creek valley carried into effect when they refused to work until all men employed in the mines with them wore union buttons.

The demand for union buttons has been bigger than at any time since John Mitchell lined up an almost solid front in 1902. Men who were never members, others who were members but forgot to pay their dues, are now being coaxed back into the fold. The order from the national leaders has come to line up every man in the field, and it is this order that the district organizers, the local union officers and the enthusiastic miners are carrying into effect.

LITTLE HOPE LEFT

Strike in Bituminous Coal Fields Is Almost Certain.

Cleveland, O., March 29.—Little prospect of settling the bituminous coal miners wage dispute to prevent a strike next Monday and the shutting down of practically all mines operated by union men was seen by the operators and union officials after they had conferred for hours and failed to agree.

The lack of any steps toward an immediate settlement and the fact only two more days intervene before the anthracite and bituminous wage scales expire were said to make it almost certain that a widespread stoppage of coal production will begin next week for an uncertain period, and a strike involving about 500,000 men may ensue.

May Run Mines Sunday.

St. Clairsville, March 29.—It is not improbable that Sunday will see the coal mines of Belmont county in full operation, which has not occurred in years. On account of the coming suspension in the soft coal fields there is an unparalleled demand for the black diamonds, and nearly all the operators have been deluged with orders.

Commission Government

TRIANGULAR DEBATE OF INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

NEGATIVE NO. 2

By Roy Sharp.

Mr. Chairman, Honorable Judges, Ladies and Gentlemen:

My colleague has proven that the present system of municipal government is adequate, that it is representative and democratic in form, and that it fixes responsibility. I shall prove that the Commission form of government is non-representative, undemocratic and that it does not fix responsibility. That the separate administrative and legislative bodies are absolutely necessary.

In the workings of the Commission form we have simply an insurrection against the first principles of popular government—the right of the people to be directly represented in all departments of their government. It is the inherent right of the people to have direct representation of their needs. This is impossible under the Commission form, because the ward lines being broken down, destroys ward representation and necessitates the election of commissioners at large.

By the commissioners being elected at large they are not familiar with the needs of all the districts. This is felt more strongly when all the commissioners come from one district, leaving the other section without any way of bringing aid to their present needs.

Honorable Judges, those in favor of the Commission form argue that the needs of a city are identical with those of a business corporation, but there is a vast difference between the two. The prime object of the latter is private gain, and its efficiency is usually dependent upon the spur of personal interest. On the other hand the city presents a problem of government in which the human element, such as schooling, hygiene, and the general happiness of the best community of men, women and children is ever present. A business corporation has no social problems, no need of legislation, they must keep ahead of competition or fall. Cities have no competition.

The courts have held time and again that the work of the city is primarily governmental. In words of Judge Dillon: "A municipal corporation is essentially public and political in character."

For the sake of argument let us admit that the needs of a city are identical with those of a business corporation, the commission form would not work in business and therefore would not work in a city. For what private corporation would place all the power in the hands of five men? In any private corporation you will find a board of directors to legislate, to determine policies, to criticize the executive and safeguard the stockholders. Where this principle is not observed the result is disastrous.

The Initiative, Referendum and Recall, which are a part of nearly all commission forms, have been recognized as irresponsible and wrong by eminent Constitutional statesmen. The Initiative permits the people to originate measures and afterwards vote upon them. Whether or not wise measures are adopted depends upon the character of the people. The Referendum permits them to decide questions of municipal policy, but it does not insure a right decision. The Recall permits the removal of an official before his term of office has expired. Honorable Judges, it can readily be seen that the Initiative, Referendum and Recall can easily be influenced by social, political, financial and various other relations, that tend to create an interest in an obligation to a man, or set of men, beyond his or their real merits enabling them to obtain by these influences that which could not be obtained on the grounds of merit.

The Initiative, Referendum and Recall have two great disadvantages: the great difficulty and expense of referring matters to the whole electorate of a large city and second, the danger of these privileges working in the hands of party politicians and grafters, will never cease to exist, whatever system of government be inaugurated.

Every time a community of disgruntled citizens see fit to invoke these privileges in the way of special elections large sums of money must be spent that could be used to greater advantage elsewhere. It has been estimated that it takes $10,000 to hold an election in a city of 140,000.

Honorable Judges, the recall in itself is simple, but in details of law perplexities arise. When the petition for removal is filed it must be signed by the clerk to become effective. Bear in mind that the clerk is appointed by the commission who direct him in all his duties. He is therefore the servant and employee of the commission. Under this condition will the clerk sign the petition for the recall of his lord and master? No, for it would mean his discharge from office.

The recall must not only meet the prejudice of a clerk whose master is to be recalled, but even the gathering of the names of responsible voters to the petition is attended with difficulty because by law the petition must set out in general terms the grievances against the official sought to be recalled. This is contrary to law, for heretofore, the law has so arranged that men do not have to disclose their views as to men and measures.

The supporters of the commission form argue that they fix responsibility on a small body of men. This is not the case for by the Initiative and Referendum and Recall, they throw the responsibility of the whole administration upon the hands of the people, thus leaving all questions of municipal government to be decided by the voters of the city, who have been so engrossed with their own private interests that they are not sufficiently conversant to vote intelligently on the subject.

Honorable Judges, the commission form is undemocratic because it involves a radical departure from American traditions of local self government, and is a long step in the direction of municipal dictatorship and despotism. The system of government by a small body tends to take power from the people. No matter what the safeguards in the form of Initiative, Referendum and Recall, the tendency is the same. It is wrong in principle and it is dangerous. The commission, if adopted, would without doubt lead to an abuse of power a gradual usurpation of the liberties of citizenship by those in authority on the one hand or a state of political unrest caused by the possibility of constant recourse to the Initiative, Referendum and Recall. Our honorable opponents say that by the concentration of authority that is by uniting the legislative and administrative departments into one body the commission form secures power and accountability. Just what do we mean by the terms legislation and administration in municipal government? The legislative power of the commission means its right to make laws or ordinances on those subjects which the state allows the city to control. Administrative power means the right to enforce or carry out those laws or ordinances passed by the legislature. Therefore they are two separate and distinct governmental bodies.

Honorable Judges, the commission form makes a great mistake by uniting completely these two functions of legislation and administration in the same body. Whenever the people desire even the slightest change in their local policy, the stability and continuity of the city departments must be upset. Representation is secured at the expense of efficiency. The whole experience of government proves the absolute necessity of separate legislative departments.

Look at any well governed city in Ohio, or in the union, you will find a separate executive department based upon appointment untrammelled by the burden of legislation. In Europe where we find almost perfect municipal government the city councils are elected by the people, the administrative departments are made up through a process of selection and appointment.

The departments of administration have been properly correlated and the general principle that successful administration depends upon a separately constituted legislative body has been established.

Again, Honorable Judges, the adoption of a commission form necessarily means a sacrifice of legislation and the ultimate destruction of local self government. Even though the city is subordinate to the state it has a broad field of independent action. Cities are permitted to exercise vast power of police and taxation. It is foolishness to say that a few commissioners can give satisfactory legislation. They cannot represent community interests as can the council system. Their executive power will naturally bias their judgment; each commissioner knowing little the needs of the departments will naturally take the word of its administrative head, especially since he desires the same freedom. This was the case in Sacramento, Cal., where after a trial of several years the Commission plan was given up as a complete failure. Hon. Clinton White of that city says, in almost every instance the board soon came to the understanding that each man was to be let alone in the management of the department assigned him.

The Delinquent Rabbit

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

THEY said last year when Easter was, an' me an' brother John got lots o' eggs with names an' lots o' little pictures on 'em. That rabbits had the Easter eggs, an' so he showed me where an' there.

"An' Pa, He Showed Me Where th' Paper Had a Picture of th' Rabbit Nest."

As if they's glad their Easter eggs by little boys was found.

An' so I got a bunny now; I had it for a week.

An' it ain't cackled none at all, although I go an' peek.

Inside its little house an' look if I can find some eggs—

"I've Showed It Pictures Like I Want Put on My Easter Eggs."

But it just sits up when I come an' begs an' looks an' begs. For lettuce leaf an' cabbage leaf, an' shivers with its nose—

I wonder if a rabbit flaps its wings some when it crows?

I'm tryin' to encourage it; I've give it lots of straw—

but it don't build a nest at all, it wants to sit an' gnaw.

Th' cabbage leaves, an' hop around an' scare at dogs an' cats.

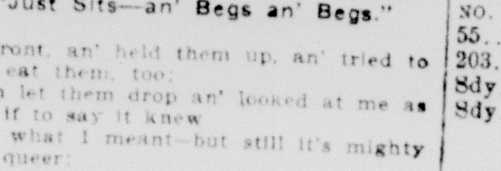

An' turn an' jump a foot or two when I look through th' slats.

An' when it's night th' rabbit won't get up there on th' roost.

An' doesn't like it when I try to help it with a boost.

'Ve showed it pictures like I want put on my Easter eggs—guess it understands me, 'cause it took them with its legs.

"Just Sits—an' Begs an' Begs."

In front, an' held them up, an' tried to eat them, two.

Then let them drop an' looked at me as if to say it knew.

Just what I meant—but still it's mighty queer.

It hasn't laid an egg at all, an' Easter's nearly here.

It just sets round an' spends its time a wrigglin' its ears.

An' jumpin' sideways, fraidlike, at each little sound it hears.

I got some corn an' stuff like chickens eat, an' throwed it in.

An' told my father that it's time eggs layin' should begin.

I got a nice big nest egg an' I've put it in th' nest.

An' told my rabbit to sail in an' do its level best.

Not Almost But Exactly
The Coffee You Want

COFFEE that is blended for you. That is what you can have in Golden Sun Coffee.

You need no longer compromise on "pretty good" coffee.

Golden Sun Coffee

—when you have found the blend you're partial to—will satisfy you wholly. The five blends are—Karex, Navarre, Briardale, Vienna and Mocha & Java.

And the one that satisfies you best may cost the least! If you are in the habit of ordering your coffee ground, be sure and get STEEL CUT Golden Sun in cans and have it properly cut—not ground.

The Stout Figure

will find in the new
RENGO BELT CORSET
a garment that has strength, will support the figure where needed, give an erect, graceful carriage, and do all this with perfect comfort to the wearer.

This corset has no fussy strappings, lacings or harness.

In fitting a

Rengo Belt Corset

do not select a size that pinches—it is entirely unnecessary. There is a size just right for you, a corset that will give your figure exactly the correct proportions, perfect comfort, and a freedom of movement that assures an amount of satisfaction you have never thought possible.

Double watch-spring boning is used throughout and guaranteed not to rust.
